

personalEYES
for life

Diabetes?

So what's next ...

Can having diabetes affect my eyes?

YES, diabetes can affect the small blood vessels at the back of the eye.

I have good vision, my eyes must be OK?

NO, the start of diabetes related changes in the eye may not affect your vision initially. If untreated, the changes can develop into something more serious.

Who do I need to see?

At personalEYES we have a team of experienced ophthalmologists who can assess if your diabetes is affecting your eyes.

What if I'm told diabetes is affecting my eyes?

The ophthalmologists at personalEYES will discuss your treatment options with you. Together, with the doctor, you can decide on your treatment plan.

What do I do next?

Make an appointment with personalEYES for your reassurance.

Other eye diseases

The importance of routine eye care increases as we get older as conditions such as cataracts, glaucoma, and macular degeneration become more common.

personalEYES offer the most extensive range of vision correction procedures in Australia which means we can choose the procedure that's right for you.

Preliminary assessment will be covered by Medicare*

*Additional tests may be required, fees may apply.

personalEYES
for life

1300 683 937

www.personaleyeyes.com.au

SYDNEY : PARRAMATTA : CASTLE HILL : CANBERRA